

CONTENTS

Introduction by Jerome Kohn	ix
Acknowledgments	xxxi
Publication History	xxxiii
Karl Marx and the Tradition of Western Political Thought		3
I. The Broken Thread of Tradition	3
II. The Modern Challenge to Tradition	16
The Great Tradition	43
I. Law and Power	43
II. Ruling and Being Ruled	56
Authority in the Twentieth Century	69
Letter to Robert M. Hutchins	92
The Hungarian Revolution and Totalitarian Imperialism		105
Totalitarianism	157
Culture and Politics	160
Challenges to Traditional Ethics:
A Response to Michael Polanyi	185
Reflections on the 1960 National Conventions:
Kennedy vs. Nixon	192
Action and the "Pursuit of Happiness"	201
Freedom and Politics, a Lecture	220
The Cold War and the West	245
Nation-State and Democracy	255
Kennedy and After	262
Nathalie Sarraute	265
"As If Speaking to a Brick Wall":
A Conversation with Joachim Fest	274

Contents

Labor, Work, Action	291
Politics and Crime: An Exchange of Letters		308
Introduction to The Warriors by J. Glenn Gray		316
On the Human Condition	322
The Crisis Character of Modern Society		328
Revolution and Freedom, a Lecture	332
Is America by Nature a Violent Society?		355
The Possessed	360
"The Freedom to Be Free":
The Conditions and Meaning of Revolution		368
Imagination	387
He's All Dwight	395
Emerson-Thoreau Medal Address		403
The Archimedean Point	406
Heidegger at Eighty	419
For Martin Heidegger	432
War Crimes and the American Conscience		433
Letter to the Editor of The New York Review of Books		434
Values in Contemporary Society	438
Hannah Arendt on Hannah Arendt		443
Remarks	476
Address to the Advisory Council on Philosophy at Princeton University	485
Interview with Roger Errera	489
Public Rights and Private Interests: A Response to Charles Frankel	506
Preliminary Remarks About the Life of the Mind		513
Transition	517
Remembering Wystan H. Auden, Who Died in the Night of the Twenty-eighth of September, 1973		525
Index	535	