

Table of Contents

Acknowledgments	vii
Chapter One: Introduction: Is Japan Falling or Rerising?	1
Hidekazu Sakai
Part One: Geopolitics
Chapter Two: Japan’s New Grand Strategy: “Proactive Realism” in the Face of an “Increasingly Severe” Security Environment	25
Thomas S. Wilkins
Chapter Three: The Japan-China-U.S. Triangle: Japan’s Response and Prospects for the U.S.-Japan Security Alliance	53
Michael R. Porter
Part Two: Domestic Political-Social Norms and Values
Chapter Four: Japanese Nationalism and Foreign Policy	71
Keiko Hirata
Chapter Five: Japan’s Civil Society: A Source of Strength	93
Philip Streich

Chapter Six: Do Changes in Governing Party Lead to Changes in Foreign Policy? Evidence from Japan	121
Paul Midford
Chapter Seven: Contending State Identities and Japan’s Policy toward the “War on Terror” in Afghanistan (2001–2010): From a “Normal State” to an “Autonomous Civilian Power”	149
Kivilcim Erkan
Part Three: Asian Regional Integration and Institutionalizations
Chapter Eight: Japanese Foreign Policy and East Asian Regionalism: Inherently Interlinked	185
Charly von Solms
Chapter Nine: “Private Sector Diplomacy” in Sino-Japanese Relations	201
Lindsay Black
Chapter Ten: Joining the New Great Game? Japan’s Quest for Region Building in Central Asia	223
Kuniko Ashizawa
Chapter Eleven: Conclusion: Abe’s Japan—Manifestation of a Quiet Transformation in Power and Values	243
Yoichiro Sato
Selected Bibliography	253
Index	261